Juno Selection Fund – October 2024

This is a marketing communication

MANAGER COMMENTARY

Uncertainty about the US elections and rising interest rates put pressure on the equity markets this month. Many third quarter company results were published in October. Melexis reported that its European customers became more cautious. A prudent outlook for the last months of 2024 caused the share price to decline by almost 20% this month. Technogym reported an acceleration in turnover again in the third quarter, a 12% improvement over last year. Where Sartorius tempered expectations in the summer, the numbers now show a returning demand. The shareprice rose by 15%, but then fell back again. Borregaard and Corbion reported earnings figures that were at the top end of expectations but measured over the month their share prices still declined somewhat. We further increased our holding in Borregaard. Paradox reported improved earnings. Since the summer, its share price has been recovering, which continued this month (+9%). Rovi decided not to spin off an important activity but rather invest to expand it itself. We met with management and decided to increase the position in the fund.

STRATEGY

Juno invests in highly profitable listed companies, with predictable earnings growth and preferably with management or a (founding) family as their main shareholders. Listed European family-owned companies operate with a longer term perspective and are more successful than non-family-owned companies<sup>1)</sup>.

Juno aims to achieve capital growth by investing in a highly concentrated portfolio of European companies. Selection takes place based on its proprietary fundamental, bottom-up analysis including on-site visits.

A high or rising return on capital and large free cash flows are good indicators of strong companies that we are interested in. We invest with a time horizon of 3 to 5 years.
